

The Bray Lectures 2009

Competing Religious Fundamentalisms

A series of free public lectures exploring a theology of peace

What factors have led to the rise of religious fundamentalism in the twenty-first century?

What can Christianity, Islam, Hinduism and Buddhism teach us about peace-making in a globalised world?

The lectures will be delivered by Dr Sathianathan Clarke, of Wesley Theological Seminary, USA. Dr Clarke is a specialist in inter-faith issues and the plight of India's Dalit communities. He helped prepare bible studies for the 2008 Lambeth Conference and is one of the editors for the forthcoming Oxford Guide to Anglicanism.

Tuesday 20 October, 4pm

Garry Weston Library
Southwark Cathedral
For more info, call 020 7378 5657 or email susanw@uspg.org.uk

Monday 26 October, 3pm

The Mirfield Centre, Stocksbank
Road, Mirfield WF14 0BW RSVP to Rachael on 01924 481920 or rsalmon@mirfield.org.uk

Tuesday 27 October, 7.30pm

Blackburn Cathedral
South Transept RSVP to Janine on 01254 503084 or janine.brown@blackburn.anglican.org

The Bray Lectures are held every two years in honour of the Revd Thomas Bray, founder of SPCK and USPG.

